

JULIEN BERMAN

Chevy Chase, MD | (240) 454-2273 | julien.d.berman@gmail.com

Education

HARVARD UNIVERSITY — Cambridge, MA	May 2026
B.A. in Economics. Phi Beta Kappa. Hoopes prize, Allyn A. Young prize. GPA: 3.93
GEORGETOWN DAY SCHOOL — Washington, D.C.	May 2022

Research

HARVARD ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT — Cambridge, MA
Senior Thesis, advised by Prof. Jesse Shapiro	Mar. 2025 – Mar. 2026
• Showed that local newspaper coverage reduces online misinformation about vaccines and immigration. • Developed novel machine learning strategy to detect misinformation at scale on Twitter. • Locally served Qwen3 with vLLM to process 2.7 billion Twitter posts. • Won Hoopes prize (top 70 theses at Harvard) and Allyn A. Young prize (best economics thesis).
Research Assistant, Prof. Jesse Shapiro	Mar. 2025 – Dec. 2025
• Analyzed data on the voting power and lending activity of international organizations to quantify changes to the increasingly fragile post-1945 liberal international order. • Edited and proofed paper showing that demographic trends poorly predict election outcomes.
Research Assistant, Prof. Jim Snyder	Sep. 2024 – May 2025
• Developed OCRABLE, a lightweight optical character recognition application that accurately identifies, labels, and processes both handwritten and typeset tabular data. • Built a Python library, API, and website for OCRABLE to support public use.

Work Experience

THE WASHINGTON POST — Washington, D.C.
Editorial Intern	Jun. 2025 – Aug. 2025
• Served as contributing member of eight-person editorial board. • Published four bylined columns and ten unsigned editorials on issues pertaining to national economic policy, including tariffs, monetary policy, and the national debt. • Edited op-eds from external contributors, including policy experts and government officials. • Conducted quantitative research and produced data visualizations for articles by staff columnists.
LAWFARE @ THE BROOKINGS INSTITUTION — Washington, D.C.
Editorial Intern	May 2024 – Aug. 2024
• Wrote long-form op-ed about the national security implications of the TikTok ban. • Published document posts explaining key breaking news in the national security arena. • Drafted daily and weekly newsletters and recorded podcast introductions.
U.S. DEPARTMENT OF TREASURY — Washington, D.C.
Strategic Planning & Protocol Intern	May 2023 – Aug. 2023
• Staffed and briefed Secretary Yellen's meetings with government officials and CEOs. • Planned and advanced in-town events with principal, senior staff, press, and U.S. Secret Service. • Managed Secretary Yellen's daily schedule.
CHARLES RIVER ECONOMICS LABS — Cambridge, MA
President	Jan. 2024 – Dec. 2024
• Led a team of 40 analysts, project leads, and operations directors to conduct rigorous, data-driven research for non-profits and governmental agencies. • Managed eight econometrics projects across three campuses: Harvard, Stanford, and UChicago. • Developed partnerships with the EPA, UN, State Department, and others.
THE HARVARD CRIMSON — Cambridge, MA
Columns Editor & Op-ed Writer	May 2023 – Dec. 2024
• Conducted a comprehensive sentiment analysis of over 60,000 college newspaper opinion articles to measure progressive shifts in student views since 2000. (Quoted in The New York Times.) • Used patent data to quantify the effects of Trump's funding cuts to university research. • Edited three student columns and one faculty column per week.

Skills

TECHNICAL: Proficient in Python, R, PyTorch, scikit-learn, pandas, dask, and vLLM.

LANGUAGE: Conversational French.

INTERESTS: Novel Writing, violin, skiing, politics, literature.